

EXETER CITY COUNCIL

LOCAL DEVELOPMENT FRAMEWORK
RESIDENTIAL DESIGN SUPPLEMENTARY PLANNING DOCUMENT (SPD)

CONSULTATION STATEMENT : Rev A August 2010

This Consultation Statement was amended in August 2010 following completion of the formal consultation period on 4 August 2010.

1.0 Consultation under regulation 17

Under the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 (regulation 17 (1) (b)) it is a requirement to prepare and make available a Statement setting out:

- the names of persons whom the authority consulted in connection with the preparation of the SPD;
- how those persons were consulted;
- a summary of the main issues raised in the consultation, and
- how those issues have been addressed in the SPD.

2.0 Details of the consultation already carried out

A full list of consultees can be found in this Appendix.

2.1 Residents' workshops (November 2008 and January 2009)

Two workshops were held with residents in Kings Health (also known as Digby) and Wellingtonia Park (also known as Fleming Way) to seek their views about what works and what does not work in their housing estates. The purpose was to identify issues associated with residential developments to inform the preparation of a practical design guide. Ten topics were discussed in each workshop and residents' comments and views were noted.

2.2 Workshop with developers and agents (March 2009)

The City Council organised a half day workshop for a selection of developers and agents to ask their views about the proposed SPD. A representative from CABA/Creating Excellence was invited to join the session. A range of issues in relation to planning process and design were discussed. The developer of a recently finished quality housing scheme were invited to give a presentation on how to achieve design quality. The purpose was to involve key stakeholders of the housing industry at an early stage of preparation.

2.3 Workshop with developers (May 2010)

The City Council organised a half day workshop for a selection of developers to seek comments on the SPD before the formal public consultation. Representatives from CABA/Creating Excellence were invited to support the workshop. Five key topics from the SPD were presented to attendees and discussed. Feedback from developers was largely positive.

2.4 CABE/Creating Excellence

CABE (Commission for Architecture and the Building Environment) and Creating Excellence (SW design body) have actively supported the preparation of the SPD at different stages. Representatives from CABE/Creating Excellence were actively involved in the first and second developers' workshops. CABE provided Building for Life assessments to Kings Health and Fleming Way developments to backup the research carried out by the project team. A Space Standard Workshop was held by CABE/Creating Excellence in Bristol in March 2010 where the City Council's project team were invited to present the research findings on Space Standards and exchange information with national bodies and other local planning authorities.

2.5 Internal consultation

The City Council's Cleansing, Housing, Parks and Environmental Health Departments were consulted. The draft SPD was amended in response to the comments received.

2.6 Other external consultation

Centre for Energy and the Environment of University of Exeter were consulted regarding sustainability aspects of the guide. Detailed comments were received and the SPD was amended in accordance with the comments.

Devon County Council Highways Department were consulted.

2.7 Formal Consultation July 2010

The formal SPD consultation was held from 24 June to 4 August 2010. In accordance with statutory requirements the consultation was advertised in the local newspaper (Express & Echo) and key consultees were notified. A full list of the consultees for the Formal Consultation can be found at 4.0.

3.0 Main issues raised and the City Council's action

The following notes summarise the pre-formal consultation process:

3.1 Residents' workshop (Wellingtonia Park/Fleming Way)

Residents thought Wellingtonia Park was as a good example of residential development. There was a high level of satisfaction amongst those at the workshop. The following findings were used as part of the evidence base to inform the preparation of the SPD:

What works:

- Retained trees/buildings give good sense of identity
- Good location (in relation to facilities and bus routes)
- Safe place to live
- Good quality buildings in terms of design and finish
- Good place for families

What does not work:

- Lack of storage space
- Garages too small
- Too many WCs at the expense of storage space
- No dedicated bin or cycle storage
- Parking is a problem
- Dissatisfaction amongst residents about the lack of clarity about who is responsible for managing and maintaining the development

The City Council's action:

- Research on space standards, parking and public realm management was carried out further to the evidence and findings collected from this workshop. Based on the research findings, the SPD then included detailed requirements on internal storage space, bin storage, minimum garage dimensions, parking (including cycle parking), public realm management and maintenance
- Photos of Wellingtonia Park are included in the SPD to show different aspects of good design

3.2 Residents' workshop (Kings Heath/Digby)

Residents thought Kings Heath was a less satisfactory residential development in all aspects, particularly in terms of sense of place, layout and building design. The following findings were used as part of the evidence base to inform the preparation of the SPD.

What works:

- Close to school and bus routes
- The big crescent is a distinct feature

What does not work (Kings Heath):

- Lack of identity – 'Legoland'
- Lack of basic facilities such as health centre, chemist, post office, pubs and cafes

- Poor links to nearby train station and supermarket
- Lower spec for private dwellings
- Lack of storage space
- Parking – garages too small
- No dedicated bin or cycle storage
- Pedestrian unfriendly roads
- Poor sustainability – and difficult to adapt
- Poor quality of buildings/finishes
- Parks not complete when moved in – unclear management responsibility

The City Council's action:

- Research on space standards, parking and public realm management was carried out further to the evidence and findings collected from this workshop. Based on the research findings, the SPD then included detailed requirements on layout design, internal storage space, bin storage, minimum garage dimensions, parking (including cycle parking), public realm management and maintenance
- Photos of Kings Heath are included in the SPD to demonstrate missed opportunity of achieving good design

3.3 Developers' Workshop (March 2009)

A selection of developers and agents were invited to attend a workshop organised by the City Council. The framework of the SPD was presented in the workshop and some key issues were discussed.

- Identified a need for clarity and consistency in the advice given by the council, particularly in early stages
- Design Principles need to be agreed at key stages. For example early in the project density, garden sizes and car parking should be agreed at the outline stage
- The guide needs to set out what details and information are needed at different planning stages
- On a number of occasions developers felt that hard work has been carried out with officers to agree a scheme to then find Councillors overturn this hard work – suggested training and support of councillors was necessary key design issues
- The County Council's Highway Department should get involved early enough to agree proposals
- Housing Associations & the Council Housing Departments should be involved early in the design process to ascertain the housing need
- A lack of design skills in the South West was identified by developers
- A balance needs to be struck between quality and costs
- The variations in standards were discussed – in particular that affordable housing often has higher internal specifications than other housing. There was agreement that the guide could set out internal space standards and this would then allow the costs for these to be calculated right from the start of the land bidding process
- Raised the need to consider the cost implications of sustainable design

The City Council's action:

- A chapter called Design Process was included in the SPD to deal with issues at early stages of design, The Design Process chapter links with other relevant chapters and directs users of the SPD to other useful documents or guidance

- Comprehensive research was carried out on internal space standards and sustainable design to inform the preparation of relevant chapters of the SPD

3.4 Developers' Workshop (May 2010)

Developers and agents were invited to attend a second workshop organised by the City Council to discuss the draft document and allow feedback before formal public consultation. Their comments relate to the different key subject areas discussed:

Sustainability:

- Concern about duplication of requirements (e.g. Part G/L)
- How will applications be checked against criteria – in-house expertise?
- Concern that officers might apply standards subjectively (some developers had experience of pressure to use visible solutions – such as Solar PV rather than concentrate on reduction in CO₂ emissions)

Space Standards:

- Some concern over evidence base, and that their customers didn't want extra space
- Valuers base their valuation on number of rooms, not internal floor area, so potential impact on price if less en-suite bathrooms etc
- Some developers concerned over additional expense of bigger houses – people can only buy what they can afford. Others felt that they could live with standards so long as they were evenly applied to all developments
- Concern over transition (e.g. schemes which already have outline consent)
- Concern over potential impact on density
- Potential impact on profit margins and S106 negotiations. General agreement that additional costs would need to be reflected in land values
- Developers interested in analysing viability of ECC alternative design for RNSD

Parking:

- Garages – expensive, many developers not building at present
- Parking numbers need to reflect location – thought that some design guidance in SE is being changed to require 2 car parking spaces per dwelling
- Allocated parking spaces considered a key requirement of potential buyers
- Cycle parking part of Code for Sustainable Homes

Amenity:

- Most developers not keen on balconies – visually unattractive and expensive
- Bin storage a problem – ECC needs to clarify requirements

Other Points:

- Some house types difficult to sell – e.g. 3 storey townhouses, flats (Persimmon stopped building)
- Some concern that planning in Exeter is too difficult – too expensive and takes too long
- Need clarity – grey areas cause problems and delays. Which parts of guide are compulsory requirements, and which are guidance

- Relate to other guidance (e.g. if development achieves Code for Sustainable Homes Level 3 it covers part of the Resi Guide requirement)
- Potential to use Residential Guide compliance as sales tool – e.g. ‘Kite-mark’

The City Council’s action:

- It was explained in the workshop that the City Council operates a team approach towards pre-application consultation, as stated on the Major Applications Protocol, to provide consistent professional advice to applicants
- The draft SPD was amended to remove ‘grey areas’ and provide greater clarity where the guide relates to other standards
- The City Council was fully aware of the implications of applying space standards and will apply standards consistently to all developments
- Detailed research was carried out to help understand the parking needs in Exeter. Based upon national and local census data the SPD incorporated new evidence and amended guidance on car parking
- Bin storage chapter was amended to take account of the City Council’s refuse collection strategy

Comments from Centre for Energy and the Environment, University of Exeter

- Sustainability should be a thread throughout whole document
- SPD should link to Government policy regarding incremental reduction in CO₂ emissions
- Suggested using SW Sustainability Checklist to allow assessment of sustainability
- Specific comments on individual sections of the document – such as enhanced emphasis on expected transport hierarchy, potential for district energy systems etc

The City Council’s action:

- The SPD was amended in accordance with the consultation responses

3.5 Other internal and external consultation

A range of internal and external consultees contributed to the preparation of the SPD. Many constructive comments were received and the SPD were amended accordingly. The names of each consultees can be found at 4.0.

4.0 Formal Consultation

A summary of the comments received during the formal consultation period and the City Council's response can be found in the table on the following pages:

1.	John Pragnell	38 Horseguards Exeter EX4 4UU		Highlights Southampton's policies regarding nature conservation and native species.	ECC have met with RSPB/DWT to discuss how biodiversity can be embedded in proposed SPD. See separate comments below.
2.	Gavin Bloomfield, RSPB SW Region	Keble House Southernhay Gardens Exeter EX1 1NT		<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Climate change will have significant impact on flora and fauna – to retain urban biodiversity open spaces should be designed with wetter winters, hotter dryer summers and more extreme weather events in mind. Link should be made between open space and Valley Parks and countryside (ecological corridors and stepping stones). Aspects of the design guide in relation to climate change adaptation, including tree planting and sustainable drainage, should be strengthened. 2. Wildlife needs. Urban bird species require nest sites, food and water – those that have habitually used nooks and crannies in private and public buildings (sparrows, starlings, swifts and bats) require nesting sites – these should be designed into buildings to be most efficient and minimise maintenance. Where this is not possible external nest boxes may be the only option. Nesting spaces in buildings need to be appropriately designed and sited (aspect and height) is critical. Developer's architects should seek advice from ecologists in these matters. Swallows and House Martins can be helped by the provision of nesting box cups (and ideally a supply of mud – see comments on SUDS). 3. Retain suitably large areas of green infrastructure in and around developments, where appropriate planting a suitable mix of trees and shrubs, supplemented with green roofs and walls. 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. ECC to review relevant sections of SPD and strengthen text in relation to climate change adaptation where possible. 2. More detailed guidance on provision of nesting spaces to be provided as appendix to SPD. ECC and RSPB/DWT developing a summary table of needs for key species. 3. Strengthen Landscape Framework section to reflect comments.

				<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 4. Sustainable Urban Drainage Systems should be designed to retain some standing water, with soft margins, and provide mud for Swallows and House Martin's nest building, within a reasonable distance of nest sites. Such areas could provide a suitable habitat for wetland invertebrates. 5. In line with Exeter Vision and Exeter Wild City Project we should adopt a clear Biodiversity Protocol which should be applied to all developments in the city (including commercial and industrial). 6. Specific guidance to benefit urban species (such as swifts, house sparrows, house martins, starlings and swallows) should be provided. 7. Specific suggestions made to strengthen text and requirements. 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 4. Provide detailed information on SUDS design in Public Realm design section, and highlight in Key Species table. 5. The scope of this SPD is for residential developments only. ECC to consider whether wider Biodiversity guidance should be produced. 6. ECC/RSPB are preparing guidance material which will be incorporated into the SPD as an appendix. 7. ECC to review comments and incorporate into text of SPD where appropriate.
3.	David Burley Dip Arch RIBA, David Burley Architects	Waterside Studio The Retreat Drive TOPSHAM Exeter EX3 0LS		<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Supports the notion of improving standards, but concerned about additional layers of obstruction. 2. SPD duplicates other established standards (Lifetime Homes, Building Regs, Building for Life, Code for Sustainable Homes). Document could be simplified by simple links to these. 3. Many of the procedural requirements are prescriptive. 4. Much of the content is excessive - detracts from core message. 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Noted. ECC believe that evidence clearly demonstrates need to improve quality of housing schemes in Exeter, and SPD seeks to address this. 2. ECC to review links to other standards and co-ordinate with Core Strategy. 3. ECC to clarify requirements and consider whether variation can be introduced for major/minor applications. 4. The content has been developed based on ECC's experience of design problems associated with residential development.

				<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 5. A number of the examples (good and bad) appear to be subjective. 6. Concern that although SPD is out to consultation that this is unlikely to impact on content. 7. There should be a useable summary which aids use and incorporate into Design and Access Statements. 8. Document is aimed at major developments – should layer requirements for smaller schemes. 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 5. The illustrations have been chosen to provide predominately Exeter based examples of good and bad practice. 6. All comments regarding SPD will be reviewed and reported to members. Where appropriate the SPD will be amended. 7. ECC will prepare a summary to aid use of the SPD. 8. Summary to provide clarity on the requirements of major and minor developments.
4.	Duncan Brownie, Housing Enabling Officer ECC (on behalf of Enabling Team)			<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Pleased that Lifetime Homes standards are proposed to be mandatory – this will ease the housing crisis associated with ageing population. Concern that criteria 16 has been excluded given minimal cost to implement. Revised standards which apply from 5th July 2010 should be used – and SPD should be flexible enough to incorporate future changes. 2. Pleased about the level of sustainability in the SPD and the incorporation of sustainability statement. 3. Very pleased about the inclusion of space standards. This will provide storage space which is often lacking in private developments and help families in overcrowded conditions. 4. Pleased that SPD includes reference to Inclusive Mobility. 5. 6.	Ian Foster	ian.foster@edfen ergy.com		<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Commends the details as being instructive, informative and easy to understand and follow. 2. The SPD should be followed for development in the Monkerton area. 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Noted. 2. If adopted the SPD will apply to all residential development.
7.	Sheila Curzon, Secretary, Devon Pensioner Action Forum	10 Balmoral Gardens Exeter EX3 0DJ		<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Glad that Lifetime Homes are mandatory – with the elderly being encouraged to stay in their own homes this will be crucial. 2. Comments that problems with parking in relation to courtyards in recently built homes near Middlemoor – some homes have only one designated space leading to ad-hoc parking and congestion. 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Notes that short culs-de-sac can be successful in designing out crime (but that leaking culs-de-sac, with interlinking footpaths, increase opportunities and escape routes for criminals). 5. Supportive comments with regard to perimeter block form (avoiding un-overlooked rear paths and routes). Notes that principles of defensible space, natural surveillance and appropriate permeability are key elements of successful design. 6. All layout designs should ensure frontages are active – front doors should look out onto well used areas of public space such as pavements. 7. Rear courtyard parking can encourage anti-social behaviour and reduce activity along house frontage. 8. In curtilage parking or parking at the front achieves is preferred option for parking, offering good natural surveillance. Garage doors should be easily observed from street and neighbouring dwellings – poorly designed and inadequately secure garages can become targets for burglary. Underground or basement parking needs to be carefully designed. Access needs to be controlled. 9. Support for bicycle parking and storage – which should help prevent theft of cycles and their components. 10. Design of public open space should be an integral part of design – poorly designed communal areas (such as playgrounds) have potential to generate 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 3. Some concern about car parking standards and on street parking – in many cases this results in difficult access for emergency vehicles and congestion – e.g. Elm Grove Road Topsham which has no parking provision. 5. CPRE think that weakest section of draft guide is 'Building Design' reflecting lack of architectural expertise at the City Council. The essential ingredients of good massing, proportion and shape, texture, colour and detailing should all be explained. This would be of help to both developers and planning officers. The SPD has been developed in line with the Exeter Vision. 4. SPD provides amplification of existing policy in accordance with guidance in PPS12. 5. ECC has held 2 workshops with housebuilders during the development of the draft SPD, as well as informal discussions with individual developers. Housebuilders have had a further opportunity to comment during this consultation stage. The draft guide has also been used in negotiations with developers during the consultation period to test its appropriateness. Most of the issues raised by D2/Barratts have not been raised at the housebuilders workshops. 6. Noted. Additional issues – other policies and relevant issues? 7. SPD to be revised in line with Core Strategy requiring minimum Code for Sustainable Homes Level 3. 				8. Setting out design process is unnecessary – Circular 1/06 para 97 sets out the various steps which need to be appraised. 9. There is no need for the Layout Design section as it provides no more than a checklist of issues which developers take into account when producing development proposals. 10. Dealing with car parking is premature pending review of national guidance by DCLG.	sustainable design of proposed development. Building for Life Assessment will be recommended for submission – all major schemes will be assessed against BfL criteria as part of pre-application and application process. 8. Design process is based on 1/06 requirements. Process is required to demonstrate importance of thorough site analysis and considered site-wide design approach to achieve high quality design. Basic requirements for site analysis, concept plan, landscape framework and block plan are considered to be essential to allow adequate consideration of the design proposals and should be provided as standard as part of the Design and Access Statement. 9. The Building for Life assessment of completed schemes in Exeter clearly demonstrates a problem with basic layout of sites – especially the design of streets and pedestrian routes and integration of landscape/public spaces. ECC therefore consider that this section is essential to guide developers to produce higher quality layout designs. 10. Car Parking requirements are based upon analysis of car ownership in Exeter and parking issues on other existing development sites. This requirement is therefore in line with

				11. No objection to Chapter 6 – Residential Amenity - provided that amenity standards are applied flexibly. 12. Object to sustainability standards set out in Chapter 9 as does not relate to Core Strategy policy. 13. Object to imposition of internal space standards as no guidance in PPS3 or any other government guidance which states that LPA's should impose internal space standards. Development industry is well aware of people's needs and requirements. 14. Object to the requirement for building's to 'create a high quality aesthetic that enhances the sense of place of the development with Exeter' as this is a highly subjective statement that does not relate to national planning policy. 15. No comments with regard to design of public realm other than overly detailed. 16. Generally it is considered that the SPD will stifle innovative and creative design.	current government guidance on localism in planning. 11. Noted. ECC's evidence base suggests that in many recent developments amenity (within and external to the home) is poor. 12. Requirement in SPD is based on Code for Sustainable Homes. Requirement for Code level 3 in Core Strategy supports needs to set out best practice in SPD. 13. Guidance on space standards amplifies existing policy DG4. Evidence that existing provision does not meet local need. HCA standards already adopted as have other local authorities. 14. This requirement is supported by PPS3 and By Design, the emerging Core Strategy and policy DG1 in the Adopted Local Plan. 15. Noted. ECC's Building for Life Assessments of completed schemes demonstrates that design of public realm is often weak. ECC therefore consider that detailed advice regarding design of the public realm is essential. 16. ECC consider that the SPD will guide developers to achieve more successful and locally distinctive designs. This is supported by the Council's informal use of the guide with Developer's during the consultation period.
